

THE BLACK PLAGUE

Once upon a time, there was a very quiet town where nothing exciting ever happened.

Everyone got along well, greeting each other with a big smile every morning.

But one day, something strange happened. A person discovered a disease that came from an animal: THE MOUSE!

They found many dead people. Seeing this, they went to someone who knew what to do, since they didn't want to die the same way.

When they arrived, they saw a strange person with a dress, and a mask, and very tall.

The peasants explained the problem to him, and the person explained that the only solution was to dress this way:

